COOPER TRIAL ADJOURNED AS JURY IS NAMED

One Woman, Eleven Men
Picked To Try
Slayer

One woman and eleven men, including one colored man, comprise the jury impaneled late Tuesday afternoon in the case of Gilbert Cooper, 50, former Cedarville farm hand and laborer, who is on trial for his life for the second time in Common Pleas Court on a charge of first degree murder as a sequel to the slaying of Caleb Hitchcock 23, near Cedarville November 24, 1928.

Immediately after the jury was obtained the trial was adjourned by Judge R. L. Gowdy until Thursday as the court room will be in use Wednesday while the Greene County Court of Appeals is in session.

The jury is expected to be taken to the scene of the shooting upon resumption of the trial Thursday morning after which the state will begin the introduction of witnesses to lay the groundwork of its chain of circumstantial evidence upon which Prosecutor J. Carl Marshall hopes to obtain a second conviction, the first having been reversed by the Supreme Court.

Personnel of the jury: Frank Owens, Cedarville Twp.; Anna Poland, Xenia first ward; Otis St. John, Xenia Twp.; Ernest Brewer, Miami Twp.; Ray Fudge, New Jasper Twp.; William Brenner, Bath Twp.; Edward Page, colored, Xenia first ward; George M. Shank, Beaver Creek Twp.; Harry Cook, Spring Valley Twp.; Oscar St. John, Caesar Creek Twp.; Ernest Hill, Silver Creek Twp.; and Charles Hawker, Beaver Creek Twp.

Contrary to a precedent established at the first trial of the case, it was decided not to select a thirteenth or extra juror to substitute for any regular member of the jury who is incapacitated by illness or for some other reason is prevented from serving throughout the entire trial.

Only thirty-six of the seventy-five available veniremen had been examined when the jury was completed. Attorney F. L. Johnson, defense counsel, used only seven or eight of the sixteen peremptory challenges to which he is entitled and Prosecutor Marshall challenged only one juror whereas he was entitled to four.

EXPECT ARREST IN GANGLAND MURDER

CLEVELAND, March 19.—The man who fatally shot Edward D. O'Leary, reputed bootlegger, here last week, is known to police, police announced today. His arrest is expected soon.

A pair of glasses worn by police at the scene of the fatal shooting was the clue that led to the identity of the murderer, it was said.

An optician, whose name is withheld by police disclosed the name of the man.

Authorities declared that he is well-known in the underworld.

Police also declared today that they have obtained an eyewitness to the murder of O'Leary.

O'Leary walked into a hospital here last week with a bullet wound in his body. Acting true to the gangland code he refused to name his assailant. He died a short time later.

WATERSPOUT STOPS EIGHT MILES INLAND

SANTA ANA, Cal., March 19.—But slight damage was reported today from the waterspout-tornado which swept in from the sea, a distance of eight miles, and broke up on a row of trees bordering the Martin airport at the edge of the city.

The waterspout jumped from the sea near Huntington Beach and roared inland uprooting brush and trees in its path. Damage was slight as the freak storm crossed vacant farm lands.

When the storm hit the row of trees near the airport it let loose a blanket of water which flooded the field to a depth of more than a foot.

TOKIO, March 19.—Seventy-six persons were killed and at least 100 injured, some of them seriously, when fire destroyed a crowded motion picture theater at Kirin, Manchuria, according to word received here today.

Approximately 1,000 persons crisscrossed the theater at the exits and reached the street in safety, but scores were pinned inside the house at the mercy of the flames and smoke.

Kirin, one of the largest cities of Manchuria, has a population of 125,000.

BROKEN WATER MAIN CAUSES INJURY TO FIVE

Gas Explodes As Pipes
Burst In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, March 19.—Five persons were injured, two houses were burned and the pavement of an entire block was undermined as the result of a bursting water main, a check disclosed here today.

When the water main, a sixteen-inch pipe line supplying two swimming pools burst in the Richmond district an avalanche of water roared down beneath the street causing the pavement to collapse and bursting gas mains. Gas explosions ignited two houses.

A number of automobiles were trapped by a wall of mud which was forced in front of the cascading water.

Mrs. Henry A. Gerdes was the most seriously injured. As the result of a gas explosion in her home, one of her legs was broken. She also was treated for contusions and lacerations.

Others injured were sent home after being treated at the emergency hospital for minor hurts.

The flood and resultant fires caused damage estimated at $100,000.

MARSHAL ATTEMPTS TO FORM CABINET

WARSAW, March 19.—Prof. Stanislas Szysmanski, marshal of the senate, bent all his efforts today toward the formation of a new cabinet.

Although Prof. Szysmanski has taken on a huge assignment in view of the raging political storms, he is assured of the aid and support of the left wing, opposition group, which admires his radical tendencies.

The professor is a devoted admirer and follower of Marshal Pilsudski and is expected to receive some aid from the Polish hero, despite the fact that the marshal himself refused to shoulder the task of forming a ministry.

PLAN IS APPROVED

PARIS, March 19.—The French cabinet today unanimously approved Premier Andre Tardieu's project for adoption of the Young plan. The measure will be submitted to the chamber of deputies immediately for ratification.

FRANCISCO DID NOT MURDER STREET CAR CONDUCTOR IS SAID

Abandon Effort To Link
Slayer With Second Death

COLUMBUS, O., March 19.—Police today abandoned the theory that John Francisco, 49, confessed slayer of his daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Edgington, 19, had any connection with the shooting of Charles Barrow, a street car conductor, as had at first been suspected.

Francisco yesterday visited the grave of his daughter. He broke down and sobbed and threw himself across the grave, crying hysterically: "Take me away, take me away."

The man, according to his confession, slashed his daughter's neck with a broken piece of a milk bottle after beating her on the head.

He planned to kill his family from whom he was estranged, he told police.

"I planned to kill Evelyn, then my wife and son and then commit suicide," the man told police.

His wife, Mrs. Alice Francisco and the son live in Dayton.

FLYING FIELD FIRE VICTIM SUCCUMBS

The explosion and $150,000 fire at the Wright flying field of the United States army at Fairfield yesterday had exacted the life of Forest Rutledge, aged 26, an airplane mechanic, today.

Rutledge was fatally burned and another mechanic was seriously burned as the result of the blast, which resulted from the ignition of fumes leaking from a dump valve on a tank of one airplane.

FOUR BANK BANDITS CAPTURED AND LOOT RECOVERED BY POSSE

Three Are Wounded; Arrested Shortly After Hold-Up

NEW LEXINGTON, O., March 19.—The daring act of holding up and looting the Junction City state bank of $5,000, today had been avenged by authorities who captured the four alleged bandits about four hours after they had staged the bank robbery.

Three of the bandits suffered minor buckshot wounds from the guns of members of the sheriff's posse. About fifty shots were fired at the desperadoes who were cornered in a woods near Crossville in this county.

A large truck was driven across the road to intercept the flight of the alleged felons. The driver of the bandit car stopped to keep from hitting the obstacle and when the men saw it was a trap for them, they took to the woods.

After slowly closing in on them, deputy sheriffs rounded them up and recovered the money which had been taken from the bank. No weapons were found on the men, but there were guns found in the automobile which they had abandoned.

Those captured were identified as Henry Dodson, 28, and his brother, Frank Dodson, 23, both of Columbus, Chester Pierce, of London, and Lawrence Bucher, 24, of Jeffersonville.

All but Pierce suffered minor wounds which were treated by doctors. Then the men were incarcerated in the Perry County Jail here.

Formal charges are expected to be instituted against the men today, and, according to reports, the men are to stand trial under Ohio's new criminal code which provides life imprisonment for bank robbers.

GAS EXPLOSION KILLS MINERS

BENTON, Ill., March 19.—An explosion caused by the ignition of mine gas was blamed today for the blast which killed two miners and injured four others seriously in the Valler Coal Company mine at Valler, late yesterday.

Four hundred men were in the mine at the time, but only eleven workers were in that particular section. Several escaped serious injury by throwing themselves flat on the floor at the first concussion.

The dead are Harvey Greenwood, 26, Muletown and Orlan Macklin of Christopher.

DRY MOSES WRITES COMMANDMENTS

COLUMBUS, O., March 19.—Four commandments which State Probation Commissioner R. R. Beetham, the "Moses of dry law enforcement," expects his dry agents to keep today had been given out by the official. They are:

First: Thou shalt be a total abstainer, except possibly when it is necessary to drink a small amount of liquor in gathering evidence for prosecution of bootleggers.

Second: Thou shalt lead a moral and circumspect life.

Third: Thou shalt be loyal and believe in thy work.

Fourth: Thou shalt be diligent and work as hard as possible to enforce the dry laws.

GARROTTING ENDS CAREER OF RACKETEER

For Sam is dead. Rival racketeers "got" him last night. Not in the approved "spot" manner, Sam was gar-

ONE KILLED IN COLLISION OF TRAINS HEAD ON

Drain Tile Wrecks
One; Second Hits
Wreckage

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Ill., March 19.—A huge drain tile that rolled onto the right of way in the path of a Chicago and North Western passenger train today was held responsible for a head-on collision between two trains which brought death to one and injury to twenty others.

Speeding to Chicago from South Dakota, the Badger State Limited struck the tile last night, derailling the locomotive and eight of the train coaches. An oncoming local passenger train crashed into the wrecked train before a warning could be given.

The boiler of the local locomotive exploded in the crash, witnesses said, killing Carl Kutner, the engineer, Engineer Harry McCloskey and Fireman Gust Ring of the first train saved their lives by leaping from the cab.

The injured, none of whom were injured seriously included Mayor Peter Mors of Arlington Heights; Miss Wynona Wajski of Barrington, Ill.; T. J. White, Woodstock, Ill.; James Taylor, Barrington; Casper Zyc, Palatine, Ill.; J. A. Hackett, North Freedom, Wis., and J. F. Williams, Milwaukee.

LINER BIDDING FOR NEW SPEED RECORD

BREMEN, Germany, March 19.—Bidding for the speed supremacy of the seven seas, the mammoth new North German Lloyd liner Europa left here at 1 o'clock this afternoon (7 a. m. Eastern standard time) on her maiden voyage across the Atlantic.

The graceful 45,000-ton vessel, sister ship of the North German Lloyd liner Bremen, present holder of the coveted "blue ribbon" of the Atlantic, was cheered by a crowd of 10,000 persons as, bedecked with flags and streamers, she pulled away from her pier in this old-world harbor.

rotted. His crumpled body was found behind the wheel of his new blue coupe. A dirty towel, bearing fingerprints, was twisted tightly about his neck.

His death marks the second fatality in the Monastero clan in less than a year. Steven Monastero, his brother, was killed last August 6.

Steve, however, "went out" in regular fashion, with the roar of sawed off shotguns and the staccato whine of chattering automatics as his requiem.

Sam felt he to Steve's rich bootleg supply business.

His death leaves no doubt that he also felt heir to Steve's enemies.

STATESMAN DIES IN ENGLAND; WON FAME FOR BALFOUR NOTE

Nation Is Grieved; Aided
Lloyd George During War

LONDON, March 19.—Lord Balfour, veteran British statesman, died at 8:15 o'clock this morning at the home of his brother at Woking, Surrey.

Lord Balfour died peacefully. He had been suffering from effects of a gastric chill for several weeks. Only a few days ago his lungs became affected. The earl was in his eighty-second year.

The Earl of Balfour perhaps was best known throughout the world for the document which will go down in history as the "Balfour note." In it Great Britain renounced all post-war claims in continental Europe, both from her allies and Germany, beyond what England needed to pay her own debts in America. Almost as well known

DENY MAC DONALD, STIMSON AT ODDS

LONDON, March 19.—Leading members of the British and American delegations to the five-power naval disarmament conference joined today in ridiculing a story appearing in the London Daily Express to the effect that Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald and Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson were at odds on an important phase of the negotiations.

The story, dwelling on a so-called "breach of harmony" between the two chief delegates, declared that the British premier had taken Secretary Stimson to task "for allowing a misleading impression to spread" that Japan was ready to accept an American offer to adjust their naval strength differences.

"The statement," Premier MacDonald said, "is absolutely and gratuitously false."

CAPONE SECRETLY VISITED CHICAGO

CHICAGO, March 19.—Al Capone secretly visited Chicago last night. This was learned today by International News Service on reliable authority while police asserted that they were still in the dark as to his whereabouts.

It was reported that Capone, released with the utmost secrecy Monday from the eastern penitentiary in Philadelphia, had gone to Indiana, following his brief stay here, and was to hold a "business conference" there with his chief lieutenants at a secret rendezvous. His next stop, it was reported, will be Florida.

In entering Chicago, Capone eluded police cordons which all day yesterday maintained a constant vigil at all his known haunts and at every conceivable point of entrance, including airports.

BANK WILL CLOSE; TO PAY DEPOSITORS

LIMA, O., March 19.—Depositors of the Lima Savings Bank here, which, according to announcement made after a stockholders meeting last night, will close its doors in the near future, will not lose any of their savings, it was announced today. The bank, which was capitalized in 1921 for $100,000, simply failed to earn money. It was reported.

DAYTON INSURANCE AGENT IS "TAKEN FOR RIDE"; NEAR DEATH

CINCINNATI, O., March 19.—Believed to have been "taken for a ride," George Green, 42, Dayton insurance agent, today is in a serious condition in a local hospital while authorities hover near his cot to question him should he recover consciousness.

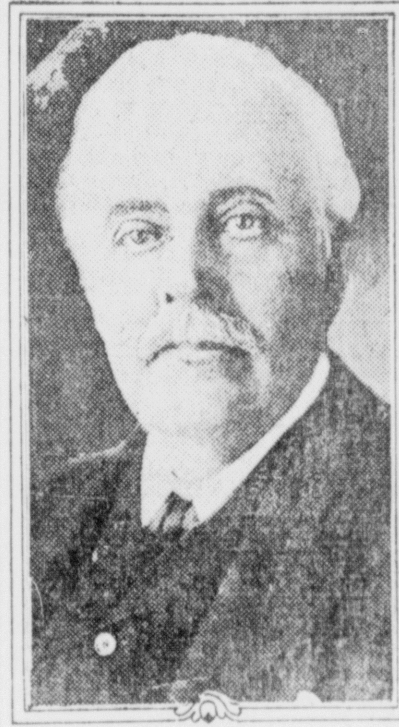

Green was found in a wrecked automobile here late last night, which had been driven into a loading platform in a suburb in the western section of the city.

The man, in a weak voice, mumbled to police that he had been "taken for a ride" by gangsters who beat him over the head. He then lapsed into unconsciousness.

The victim's condition is reported as "very grave." Hospital officials declared that he would probably die.

Police were at a loss to supply a motive for the affair, unless Green was robbed. A small amount of money was found on him, but he could not say whether he had a larger sum.

LORD BALFOUR DIES

Lord Balfour, above, veteran British statesman, died Wednesday morning after being ill several weeks. He was eighty-two years of age.

BATTLE TO CONTROL YOUNGSTOWN STEEL OUTFIT CONTINUES

Rival Factions Are Paying
High For Voting
Stock

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 19.—Quietly and determinedly, rival factions in the "steel war of the century" are attempting to corral Youngstown Sheet and Tube voting stock from the open market and in private sales with which to aid their sides in the bitter battle over the proposed merger of the property with Bethlehem Steel Corporation, it was reported in financial circles here today.

The deadline as to who may vote on the consolidation proposal at the Sheet and Tube stockholders' meeting April 8, has been set for next Saturday, March 22. After Saturday and up until the date of the stockholder's meeting, the merger war will be resolved into a furious fight for proxies.

An indicator of the bitter scramble for Sheet and Tube voting stock is the report that sales as high as $150 a share were reported in transactions off the stock exchange yesterday.

Leaders of the rival merger factions have set up headquarters here to direct the campaigns for and against the proposed consolidation. Cyrus W. Eaton, Cleveland financier, arrived yesterday and indicated that from now until April 8 he plans to spend some time here daily in waging his war against the merger.

TAFT FAVORED DRY LAW SAYS FISHER

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The late chief justice and ex-president, William Howard Taft, reached the conclusion before his death that the results of prohibition have been "glorious" and the eighteenth amendment "will achieve a satisfactory result" if the dries keep up their fight.

The views of Mr. Taft, often quoted on both sides of the wet and dry fight, were embraced in a letter, written to Irving Fisher, professor of economics at Yale University, presented for consideration of the house judiciary committee today.

The letter came like a voice from the grave of the ex-president, who was buried only last week with the highest honors the nation could bestow, to clear up the dispute over his convictions on the question.

Unable to speak in life, while in the cloister of the supreme court, he made known his views in the letter, dated Nov. 21, 1928, after the presidential campaign, during which he was frequently quoted.

Scrap is weak in most centers, heavy melting steel having declined 25c a ton at Pittsburgh and 50c a ton at Cleveland. Composite prices of the iron are unchanged, pig iron at $17.75 per gross ton and finished steel at 2.312c a pound.

NUN LEADS PUPILS FROM PATH OF FIRE

CLEVELAND, O., March 19.—Sister Mary Jane, principal of St. Michael's Catholic parochial school here, today was praised for her action yesterday when fire broke out in the school, endangering the lives of 500 students.

When the fire was discovered in the basement Sister Mary Jane organized the pupils and led them through smoke filled halls to safety.

Damage to the school was reported to be slight.

WILL SUCCEED M. E. GRAHAM THURSDAY; LATTER TAKES DESK

Present Chief Will Retire; Successor Has Long Record

Appointment of Ozni H. Cornwell, captain of Company L, 147th Infantry, Ohio National Guard, as chief of police of Xenia, effective Thursday, was announced Wednesday by City Manager M. C. Smith.

Capt. Cornwell succeeds Michael E. Graham, 63, who has served as police chief for the last ten years, but who will voluntarily retire to the position of day desk man on the department Thursday because of advanced age and poor health.

Appointment of Cornwell was made by Manager Smith from an eligibility list of six names certified to him recently by the Xenia Civil Service Commission, following an examination taken by seventeen applicants.

The retiring police chief has served continuously on the department since June 6, 1907 as a regular member and had served one year before that time as a special officer. He was appointed on the force by Mayor William Brennan in 1907 when the late Ed Smith was chief, and became a day patrolman about seventeen or eighteen years ago.

He was named chief of police April 1, 1920, by City Manager Kenyon Riddle, to succeed James H. Canaday, who resigned after six years of service.

In the civil service examination, Graham had received the grade next highest to Canaday, who received the appointment.

His long record on the department has given him an intimate knowledge of criminality and his long association with police work ideally fitted him for the position of chief.

Lately, however, his health be-

SCHROEDER WOMAN CROSS-EXAMINED

COURTROOM, New Castle, Pa., March 19.—Irene Schroeder resumed the witness stand here today as Special Prosecutor Charles J. Margiotti extended his cross-examination of Pennsylvania's woman bandit charged with the slaying of Corporal Brady Paul of the state highway patrol.

Irene was more humble, but just as sullen, as she took the stand. She seemed not so sure of herself and watched Margiotti closely as he questioned her.

Margiotti asked his questions in a dry, bored manner. He had thundered his queries at Glenn Dague on the stand yesterday but today he smiled sympathetically and encouragingly at the stammering Irene.

"Now, don't bother answering if you're not sure," he purred. "Just take your time."

DOWNWARD TREND OF STEEL WILL CEASE

PITTSBURGH, March 19.—Cessation, to a large extent, of the downward trend of steel specifications but continued lack of the customary backlogs at the mills, with buying at close range as the second quarter approaches, will be noted by the iron age in its weekly summary of the iron and steel trade tomorrow.

Demand for light rolled steel products shows little improvement, bookings thus far ranging from 50 to 55 per cent of capacity. Sales of cold rolled strip steel have been more commensally made at 2.55c or $2 a ton below the recent minimum.

Scrap is weak in most centers, heavy melting steel having declined 25c a ton at Pittsburgh and 50c a ton at Cleveland. Composite prices of the iron are unchanged, pig iron at $17.75 per gross ton and finished steel at 2.312c a pound.

PARADE WILL PRECEDE LARGE INITIATION BY EAGLES HERE

The greatest class initiation ever conducted by Xenia Aerie, No. 1689, Fraternal Order of Eagles, will be held at the Aerie hall Sunday afternoon, March 23 when between seventy and 100 new members are expected to be inducted into the order.

Preceding the initiation ceremony, a monster street parade will be held, starting promptly at 2 o'clock, led by Aerie officers, band, new candidates, and members of the Aerie, with visiting delegations from a large number of Ohio cities also in the line of march. Degree teams from Dayton and Springfield will be present as well as several bands and representative state officers of the Eagle fraternity.

Through a special Grand Aerie dispensation of the grand worthy president the local Aerie has been authorized to accept applications for membership until noon, March 23 in order that the class may be as large as possible. The Aerie physician will be on hand to examine any candidate whose application is submitted at the last minute.

In the opinion of Secretary Otto Hornick, the coming class initiation is a stepping stone for a bigger and better local Aerie. Prizes will also be awarded in connection with the intensive membership campaign.

The entertainment committee of the Aerie will celebrate in advance of the initiation with a "victory dinner" Thursday night, March 20. Members are urged to bring their new candidates with them. The meeting will start at 8 o'clock and an entertaining program has been arranged. A final report on the membership drive will also be given.

The Washington C. H. and Springfield bus continues to reach the latter place by the Yellow Springs-Springfield Pike, on account of bridge repair on State Road 72 near Springfield.

Mrs. John Garlough is spending the week-end in Yellow Springs.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the United Presbyterian Church will meet Wednesday at the manse. Mr. Earl Collins will speak of his recent work in Egypt.

Young Couple United At Ceremony In Dayton

An interesting wedding of the early spring was that of Miss Leah Lou Laycock, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Laycock, 314 Hill St., and Mr. Paul Morris Baughn, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Baughn, N. West St., which was solemnized Tuesday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Valorous F. Brown, Edgewood Apartments, Dayton, former Xenians, in the presence of a small assemblage of relatives and friends. The Rev. Mr. Brown officiated, using the impressive single ring ceremony. The bride chose for her marriage a frock of Independence blue flat crepe and wore a hat of blue and blonde shoes and hose. She wore a beautiful corsage of sweetpeas in various shades and red rose buds.

The young couple was attended by Miss Ruth Smith, Xenia, as bride's maid and Mr. Rotha Trouton of Jamestown as best man. Miss Smith's frock was of green flat crepe and she wore a corsage. Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Baughn and guests motored to Xenia where a light refreshment course was served at the home of the bride's parents. The guests were seated at small tables which were beautifully decorated in a yellow and white color scheme which was also followed at the bride's table, where members of the bridal party and the immediate families were seated. The center piece was of early spring flowers and the rooms of the house were decorated with pussywillows and jonquills.

Mr. and Mrs. Baughn left Wednesday for a short honeymoon trip through the northern part of the state. They will be at home after the first of next week at 506 N. West St.

Mrs. Baughn is a graduate of the class of 1926 of Central High School and has recently been employed at the Wagner Jewelry Store. She is a member of the Business and Professional Women's Club and past-marshal of Aldora Chapter, Order of Eastern Star.

Mr. Baughn is associated with the J. W. Baughn Sand and Gravel Co.

OFFERS PATENTS IN GOVERNMENT PROBE

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The Radio Corporation of America will furnish the department of justice with a list of all patents held on radio equipment, in connection with the investigation of that company as to alleged violations of the Sherman Anti-Trust act, it was learned today.

Some time ago the Couzens senatorial committee asked John Lord O'Brien, assistant to the attorney general in charge of anti-trust matters, to submit a report as to what action was intended. At that time O'Brien expected to furnish the committee the status of the case within thirty days.

WOMAN "LOOK-OUT" DURING ROBBERIES

CINCINNATI, O., March 19.—A Ruth Livermore episode had occurred here today.

Burglary charges have been filed against Edna Priessman, 32, who, according to police, admitted that she acted as a "look-out" for a male companion who allegedly burglarized two stores here.

Ruth Livermore, former Pennsylvania school teacher, is serving a life term in the Marysville reformatory because she acted as a "look-out" while her husband looted the home of a prominent Youngstown, Ohio, man.

COURT OF APPEALS IN SESSION HERE

The Greene County Court of Appeals of the Second Judicial District, composed of Albert H. Kunkle, Springfield, presiding judge; James I. Allread, Columbus, and Roscoe G. Hornbeck, London, associate judges, convened in Common Pleas Court Wednesday to hear arguments in six or seven cases docketed for consideration on appeal in error from Common Pleas Court.

The most interesting case to be considered and determined by the appellate court is the appeal of Charles R. Fay, Middletown, from a fine of $500 and costs and suspended sentence of six months in the County Jail, imposed by Judge R. L. Gowdy following his conviction of permitting the selling of pools on dog races at the Fairfield track last July.

FUNERAL SERVICE HELD FOR DE RIVERA

MADRID, March 19.—A sad roll of muffled drums greeted the return to his homeland today of Primo De Rivera, dead dictator. An imposing array of mourners lined the platform of north station at 7:25 o'clock this morning as the train bearing the body of the captain general rolled slowly to a standstill.

The chimes of a nearby church pealed a funeral song, punctuated by the slow booming of saluting artillery.

Great crowds of citizenry, silently awaited outside the station while a military detachment removed the flag-draped coffin from its special coach and carried it into the station to lay in state until noon in an improvised chapel.

The casket was placed on a catafalque around which were banked large blankets of flowers.

It was here that the first requiem mass was sung. Several hundred citizens, in addition to the large group of personal friends, members of the family and a platoon of infantry, attended this service.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

But this I say, He which soweth sparingly shall reap also sparingly; and he which soweth bountifully shall reap also bountifully. Every man according as he purposeth in his heart, so let him give; not grudgingly, or of necessity: for God loveth a cheerful giver.—Corinthians, ix, 6, 7.

OUR CITY'S CHILDREN

At a dinner in Washington to mark the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the Boy Scout movement, Mr. Hoover put his finger on one of the most serious problems created by the progressive urbanization of our national life, when he said:

"As civilization becomes more complex and as the number of human beings per acre increases, as we live more and more in towns and cities than in the countryside, and as the necessity of submitting to all forms of mechanical device carries us further and further from the simpler and more primitive forms of life, we are unconsciously decreasing liberty for boys and diminishing the opportunities for pursuit of happiness, because the boy is a primitive animal and takes to primitive life. His true life should be one of discovery, adventure and great undertakings not to be found in either the squalor of the tenement house or the drawing room of palatial apartments."

The purpose of the Boy Scouts and similar organizations is in part to restore to boys and girls living in urban centers some of the finer things which the necessities of urban conditions have taken from them. The children of the city man who finds his own recreation on an artificial golf course stand in much greater need of his attention than do the children of the farmer, who gets all the exercise he needs in the course of his daily chores. They find their primitive impulses restricted, when these impulses should be liberated and directed into wholesome channels of expression. Their contacts with nature are comparatively few. They live in apartments steadily decreasing in size, with only the streets or parks or vacant lots to play in. The result is that many children in our cities are brought during the formative period into contact with things from which their active but unformed minds might better be protected.

We don't mean to say that children born in the country or in small urban centers are morally superior to those born in congested cities; but it is obvious to anyone who takes the trouble to compare conditions that they have a much better chance to grow up clean and wholesome-minded. The material or external temptations of the countryside are fewer, as are also the spiritual temptations resulting from the diminishing opportunities to pursue happiness in natural directions of which Mr. Hoover spoke. Any organization that can overcome these artificialities of urban life and provide proper means for youth to satisfy its primitive desire for adventure, will pay dividends in better citizenship founded on a higher ethical standard and a more wholesome national physique.

Of course, we could get right out of Haiti and let the natives start in killing one another again. But somebody else would have to take up the work we had laid down.

Rear Admiral Byrd has come out of the frozen south to face the perils of civilization again.

The WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

EDUCATING GROWN FOLKS

The enterprise of educating children is without doubt the most important educational enterprise in the world. Whether the world is going to be better a few generations hence depends pretty much on what education is like today and what it is going to be like tomorrow. But there is something else in the world that's interesting and worth doing besides that. Adults who no longer have the fun of youth or the enthusiasms of youth are looking about them and wondering how they are going to provide happiness for middle age and for old age. The way of education is best. Thousands of middle aged people and some who are older are taking courses in universities, knowing that the pleasures of the mind outlast all other pleasures as life goes on.

Today radio is one of the principal factors in adult education. Right now there are four educational ventures in radio that are worth our time. They are the weekly programs of the National League of Women Voters, the Farm Policy Association, sponsoring talks on international subjects, Walter Damrosch in talks on music, and the American School of the Air.

TOMORROW'S BUSINESS MAN

Modern business men who by means of push buttons and competent secretaries can get more done in an hour than the old-fashioned business men did in a day will be put completely out of date by the business man of the future. Some day, by means of telephone and television, man will be able to project himself through space and attend four or five board meetings all the way from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast in one day. Indeed we need have no fear that man's mechanical ingenuity will not provide him with all the machinery that imagination can picture. The real question is whether he will ever learn how to use this amazing machinery for the best ends.

IRON

Speaking of fumes, Jeffries, noted metallurgist of Cleveland, tells us the earth's crust is about five per cent iron. There will be enough for all future needs for generations to come. Run down the roll of the metals and we find there is either enough or more to come or somebody is finding a substitute that is better.

No reason to worry about man's mechanical smartness. What he is THINKING ABOUT when he is not making iron or digging coal, what he is THINKING ABOUT in his relations to other human beings—these are the essentials.

APPRECIATION

There is nothing quite so pitiful as to observe the cut that ingratitude or the lack of appreciation has made. Especially are elderly people sensitive when they have done their best and find that nobody cares. May we never let the honest emotion of the heart or the honest effort of the mind go unnoticed and uncared for. Achievement is no more glorious than failure when both are animated by the sincere effort to do one's part.

WHAT THE BOSS SAYS

The boss who used the same methods with all his men is not very intelligent. Some men have to be told, others asked. Some men rarely have to be either told or asked. A boss who has not a fairly keen analysis of human nature is not a real executive. He is just a fellow with his name on the door.

How the date of Easter Sunday is determined interests many correspondents at this season of the year. The Council of the Christian Churches at Nicea adopted the present rule for determining the date of Easter in A. D. 325. Easter falls on the first Sunday following the Paschal full moon which happens upon or next after March 21. The principal reason, says George Eastman, for placing Easter Sunday on this date was that pilgrims needed moonlight to travel on their way to the great yearly Easter festivities. The date of Easter may vary at present between March 22 and April 25.

If a Paschal full moon falls on Sunday, then Easter Day is the next Sunday. Easter this year is on April 20.

WORLD'S LARGEST CITIES

What is the world's largest city? Next largest?

New York, counting the recognized metropolitan district, with 9,472,500 population, according to the July 1, 1926, estimate, is the largest. "Greater" London, with 7,742,212 according to it in 1925, is next.

PRESIDENTIAL ELIGIBLES

Is any boy born in the United States, of white parents, presidentially eligible in this country?—or must his father, too, have been born an American citizen?

The answer to the first question is "yes"—if he is at least 35 years old, has "been 14 years a resident within the United States" and has not otherwise forfeited his citizenship. A girl also would now be eligible, and the United States constitution does not even specify white parentage. For instance, Vice President Charles Curtis, who might conceivably become president, is partly Indian.

INSTALLMENT BUYING

Is the "installment plan" a benefit to the people or not?

The "installment plan" simply is "credit," which is a great convenience to some people and the ruin of others. Judiciously used, it permits the supplying of needs in advance of income. Overworked, it ends in bankruptcy.

AMERICANS

Why are the people of the United States called Americans, but not Canadians or Mexicans?

Simply because the people of the United States were so called first, and the habit having become too strong to break, the others had to be called something else to distinguish them.

WORLD POPULATION

Is population increasing or decreasing?

World population in recent generations has been steadily increasing.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

ETHICS OF HOBODOM

NEW YORK CITY, New York — Prof. Frank Hamilton, noted hobo savant, for whom Jack London autographed a complete set of his books, got into town the other day and from his Bowery lair denounced "the dilettante and upstart college bum."

The professor was very lugubrious. "I tell you," he said, "the profession has fallen upon evil days. It's gotten to a point where anybody can call himself a hobo and the glib public lets him get away with it."

"With the exception of myself, and possibly one or two others, there isn't a first class hobo in New York today. Indeed, I shudder to think of Spring coming on because it will only emphasize the shabby showing that hoboism will present to a waiting world."

"Today they turn out hobos in a couple of months—raw, unethical rookies. When I learned hoboing I had to serve an apprenticeship of five years. The bourgeois influence has invaded the pure strain of Hobodom. The craven bums have all the instincts of a Babbitt. They are little better than tourists."

The Professor, who, incidentally was the first man to introduce pajamas into a Bowery flop joint, shook his head and said:

"There are men masquerading as hobos today who never swing aboard a gondola or rode blind on the hot-shots. Masqueraders, I tell you, and mountebanks. These safety razor, automobile and gasoline bums are degrading the profession."

HA! HA!

Static nearly caused an efficient telephone operator to lose her job on the switchboard of a large mid-town hotel. A woman called in asking for a gentleman she said was a guest at the hotel.

The operator, looking up the name, saw that the man had checked out an hour before. She told the woman so. A few minutes later the same woman called the hotel manager and demanded that the operator be fired.

"I inquired for Mr. X," she said. "He is an estimable gentleman, a publisher of religious literature. Your telephone operator tells me that he was checked out an hour ago. It is an outrage. Mr. X was never checked out of any place."

Explanations, laughter, curtain.

ANOTHER TRIP INTO THE POLAR REGIONS

CONFUSION OF MAJORITY LEADERS LAID TO HOOVER'S COMMISSIONS

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—Why President Hoover is not better defended by G. O. P. spokesmen in congress, when the Democrats attack him, is a good deal of a puzzle to politicians.

The Republicans themselves do not seem to know just what the answer is.

It is plain enough why the Republican insurgents never have a good word to say for the White House. They dislike most of its policies as heartily as the Democrats do, and criticize the president quite as fiercely, or more so.

The G. O. P. standpaters also dislike him. For party reasons they refrain from expressing their dislike aloud, but they have no fault to find with others' expressions of theirs.

Still, Mr. Hoover is not without friends on Capitol Hill. Why do they not talk back when the anti-administrationists razz him?

The president's henchmen outside the lawmakers' ranks resent the silence of the legislators who, they think, ought to speak up for him in answer to the opposition's jibes and jeers in the senate and house of representatives.

Stung by these complaints, Senator Fess did, indeed, make a speech in the chief magistrate's behalf, on the anniversary of his inauguration.

About all it elicited, however, was a little surprised comment to the effect that at last it had occurred to someone else to give the White House a hand for once.

Senator Fess is rather a clammy orator, anyway. If Senator Allen or Senator McNary, or any one of several other senators who class as loyal Hooverites, had followed his lead, the occasion might have developed a reasonable amount of enthusiasm. But no, they sat there as dumb as oysters, pressing their lips against the door of plaudits and that was all there was to it—a middling tame performance.

And, as previously remarked, the Hooverites do not appear to know exactly what it is that keeps them so tongue-tied. They evidently want to do all that is required of them and are conscious that they are not doing it, but somehow, apparently they lack any inspiration.

Is it possible that Congressman John N. Garner, the Democratic leader in the house of representatives, senses more nearly than the Hooverites themselves realize it, what is the matter with them? "Not a Republican leader in either house of congress," as Garner put it recently, "has the faintest idea of what the president wants—or that he wants anything in particular."

There may be a modicum of truth in this—in the idea that the Republican leaders do not fight for their Republican president's policies because they are uncertain what these policies are.

The Hoover method, when a problem is to be solved, of appointing a commission to solve it, unquestionably is confusing to politicians.

They have cut-and-dried ways of solving their problems, and the commission method upsets them completely. This is especially true in the case of Mr. Hoover's commissions by reason of the fact that so few of them ever arrive.

"He is an estimable gentleman, a publisher of religious literature. Your telephone operator tells me that he was checked out an hour ago. It is an outrage. Mr. X was never checked out of any place."

Explanations, laughter, curtain.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

By MRS. MARY MORTON

Apple Pandowdy—Six tart apples, three-fourths cup sugar, cinnamon, one tablespoon butter, two to four tablespoons water, crust. Pare and cut apples in quarters, removing cores. Put into a well buttered baking dish. Sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon and dot with bits of butter. Add the water and cover with the crust, rolled to about one-third inch in thickness. Bake in a moderate oven till apples are done. Serve with cream or milk.

Crust — Two cups flour, four teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon sugar, four tablespoons butter, three-fourths cup milk. Mix and sift dry ingredients. Rub in the butter with fingers, add gradually enough milk to make a soft dough. Turn onto a floured board and roll out.

SUGGESTIONS

Successful Washing
Plenty of soap and warm water is necessary for the successful washing of clothes. You need hot water for white clothes, lukewarm water for colored clothes and silks, and warm water for rinsing. That is one of the secrets of successful wash.

Sometimes it is necessary to give clothes a preliminary dip in cool or cold water before plunging them into hot water. Albuminous waste from the skin, holding oil and perspiration and other forms of soil, as well as various stains from meat, eggs and milk, may be cooked in the fabric by hot water and thus be rendered difficult to dislodge. Especially in neckbands, cuffs, and collar bands is this likely to happen.

Therefore, each load should have a dip in cool or cold water first. A short soak in a tub may be sufficient, but it is advisable to give them a short preliminary washing in cool water to which a soap solution has been added.

CHEAP AND NOURISHING

Irish Stew
Two pounds neck or breast of lamb, two onions, sliced, two carrots, sliced, one turnip, sliced two or three medium potatoes, water or stock, flour, salt, pepper. Cut meat into small pieces, first brown in fat, then place in deep, frying pan or kettle, cover with water or stock, and bring to a boil. Add sliced onion, lower heat and allow to simmer for about two hours. Then add potatoes and carrots and cook more rapidly until vegetables are done. Thicken liquid with flour and season. Serve stew with dumplings.

Tartar

"Dear Doctor: What is tartar on the teeth and what can I do to prevent it? I take very good care of my teeth and brush them thoroughly, and still it collects."

"MISS M."

Tartar collects on the teeth even though they are brushed thoroughly, Miss M. However, very few people brush their teeth long enough. They should be brushed by the clock until one gets the habit of brushing them long enough. Three to four minutes by the clock, and if you have irregular teeth, as long as five minutes—two or three times a day. One of the cleanings should always be before going to bed.

Tartar comes from a precipitation of the salts in the saliva—therefore it is gritty and hard—combined with bacteria and food debris. It has to be removed periodically by a dentist; you can't do it by yourself.

"Dear Doctor: Will you please advise me whether using rubbing alcohol and camphor mixed together is harmful for reducing legs, throat and body? I want to reduce my legs and thighs, for I am out of proportion."

"MISS J."

It would probably do no harm to use the mixture (it might make the skin dry), but it won't do any good either. It will not remove fat. But deep massage and special exercises will help these fatty spots, with the general reducing diet.

There is nothing rubbed on the skin that will be absorbed and reduce fat; neither is there anything in the bath that will do that, either.

We have an article outlining some splendid exercises, called the Tummy Ten. Send for this, and it will tell you how to reduce. We have a pamphlet on Reducing and Gaining. See column rules.

Every once in a while I'll get a letter which asks me what I mean by "column rules."

At the end of every article of mine there should be an editorial note, explaining the column rules, and if your paper doesn't run this, you can do us all a favor by writing to the editor and asking him if he won't run it. (I hope he doesn't see this note and cut-it-out!) Editors cut it off, occasionally; they explain, on account of space; but it is important for good service.

M. A. E.: I think you should go to a skin specialist and tell him just what you have written me. If the boy did have that so-called social disease and had a sore on his mouth, you certainly may have caught it by kissing him. This not infrequently happens, and it should be a warning to girls as well as boys.

You do not have to send stamps or coin for an answer or article in the column, Miss E. They are only sent with a self-addressed, stamped envelope with request for printed articles which we send out to our readers.

Miss B.: We have an article on the Anemias, and a pamphlet on Kidney and Bladder Disorders, which you may have by observing column rules.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column in their turn. Requests for articles or pamphlets on hand must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, plus the following "mail charge to help cover cost of printing and handling: for each article wanted, two cents in coin; for each pamphlet, ten cents in coin. The pamphlets are Reducing and Gaining, Hygiene of Women, Kidney and Bladder Disorders. Address Dr. Peters, in care of this paper. Write legibly, and not over 200 words.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR VIRGINIA: Will you please kindly give your candid opinion on the following:

"Have been married for nearly two years, during which time have found out I do not love my husband. We never agree on anything, and we're a very irascible couple. Matrimonial seas are sure one hell when you can't get along together. I try to do my best, but to no avail."

"Now—to make a long story short—I am in love with a married man. Well, what do you think of that? Perhaps you think I'm insane, but it's no sin to love, is it? He also is in love with me. It surely is wonderful to be in love and to be loved! Now don't tell me to try and forget him, because I have tried and tried, but in vain."

"Oh, Virginia, he's so wonderful and so handsome, that I can't help but love him. But what can I do? After an evening's ride I hate to leave him. I hope you'll not think too harshly of me."

It is hard not to be harsh, my dear. "He's so wonderful and so handsome," you say, and so false, add I. Did you get along with hubby pretty well before you met this paragon of virtue and good looks? How about his wife, and has he children? I presume you have none.

What should you do if you cannot love your husband and fight continually, why stay with him? Probably he would be as glad to get rid of you as you are to get rid of him. You should work off some of that emotion you are bestowing on someone else's husband on supporting yourself in a job. Then at least you would be free to accept attentions from other men, although not married men, even then.

Don't you see, my dear, that as long as you are not willing to keep your marriage promises, and seem to think you have a perfect right to appropriate other people's property, you are never going to be happy? Suppose you broke up this man's home—or helped him break it up—would you trust him, if you married him?

Wouldn't you be afraid that when things got a bit monotonous—as they always do—he would get interested in someone else, and wouldn't he have the same feeling about you? Not much chance of a real union there, is there? I'm afraid it would be another "hell," with plenty of fuel to feed the fires. Of course it's wonderful to love and to be loved—but not in the way you love.

There, I have told you candidly what I think. And I bet you wish you never had written and are mad clean through. Can't help it. That's the way the matter strikes me.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am a young man 18 years of age. I am desperately in love with a girl of 15 and she cares for me, and is willing to go with me, but her parents won't allow her to have my company. What would you do in a case like this?"

WORRIED.
See her when you can, my boy, show the parents that you are to be trusted, and storm the citadel until it gives up. In other words, ask them to let you take her out occasionally, then see that she gets home in good time, and maybe in time they will relent.

A. B. C.: I think the girl friend is just being ill-tempered and "independent." Think it's smart to boss you. Give her a dose of her own medicine. Tell her you're tired of her "bawling out," and that you don't think you could be happy married to a girl with such a disposition. It's all right for a boy to buy a girl nice presents if they are engaged and she treats him nicely.

JUST AN OFFICE GIRL: Your boy friend's conduct does not seem very considerate and kind. I should say I'm afraid he would not make a very good, thoughtful husband.

LITTLE BLUE EYES: If a boy really loves a girl he shows it, and there can be no doubt about it. So until this boy seeks your company, I am afraid you will have to "let him and leave him."

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Do you remember, as far back as nursery days, the wonderful treasure that was guarded by seven doors? And in order to get that treasure, you had to open each of those doors, one at a time, with one of seven keys? Beauty is something like that, and this week I'm going to give you the Seven Keys, the "Open Sesame" to Youth and Loveliness.

The first key is Cleanliness. A skin and body cannot be beautiful unless they are clean. Cleanliness is the prime requisite for beauty.

Baths are the first step toward cleanliness. Thorough cleansing of the body removes all extraneous matter, keeps the pores clear and active, and stimulates the functions of the skin. Your general health is enhanced, for when the skin functions perfectly, the lungs and kidneys have less work to do and can perform their duties with greater efficiency.

No beauty can develop in a body which is not internally clean. Inactivity or slow activity of the intestinal tract results in a state of auto-intoxication, which lies at the root of many troubles. An offensive breath, a malodorous body, a blotchy skin, a dull mind, and a listless manner follow as a result of constipation, even when the case is not a serious one. Select carefully the foods which you eat; it might be well for you to go on a fruit and vegetable diet. Modern food consists of highly specialized products. It lacks the roughage such as was found in old-time whole wheat flour, and you must take special pains to provide this roughage for yourself. It is found in peelings of fruits and vegetables—which are usually thrown away as waste. Learn to like the "unrefined" foods, and get into the habit of eating them.

Fresh air and plenty of drinking water are free and wholesome and you should avail yourself of them. Drink at least eight glasses of water a day—wash away your sallow skin! Breathe—and breathe deeply—all the fresh air you can. Keep your windows open wide when you sleep at night; walk in the fresh air, and if you can do no better, stand at your window at different periods in the day and breathe out the stale air and fill your lungs with fresh!

League Champs Given Trip To Tournament

GAZETTE WILL PLAY HOST TO CENTRAL'S SQUAD AT COLUMBUS

Coach, Manager And Ten Players Will Get Two-Day Trip

Desiring to reward Xenia Central High School's basketball team for its feat in winning the title of the Miami Valley League for the third consecutive year, THE GAZETTE will be host to ten members of the court squad in addition to Coach Walter "Pinky" Wilson and the senior manager on a two-day trip to Columbus Friday and Saturday, permitting the players to witness the Class A and Class B finals of the state basketball tournament.

The squad will leave Xenia about noon Friday, motoring to the capital city in two automobiles furnished by THE GAZETTE, which will also supply tickets for the tourney games. The party will remain at a hotel over night Friday with expenses paid and will return home late Saturday night after the final championship games at the fairgrounds.

During the two-day visit the boys will have an opportunity to watch every tournament game in both Class A and Class B if they so desire.

Accompanied by Coach Wilson and Huga Espey, senior manager, the following players will make the trip: Joe Smith, John Hurley, Birch Hall, Lester Price, Fred Dill, John Schiepp, Robert Dey, Howard Thompson, James Ralls and Robert Hardy.

It is the belief of THE GAZETTE, that the players will enjoy witnessing the state finals possibly more than anything else that could be arranged in their honor.

Bowling

Recording a score of 268 Harry Spahr established a new Recreation League record for high individual single game this season as the Red Wing Co. won two out of three games from the Arch-O-Pedic team in a league match Tuesday night. Spahr's record-breaking game exceeded by one pin the former record of 267 held since the start of the season by L. A. Wagner, of the Benrus Watch team. Harry had a miss in the first frame, then laid in nine consecutive strikes and ended up with a spare. His three-game total was 688. Box score:

THREE REDS PLACED ON HOSPITAL LIST

ORLANDO, Fla., March 19.—Three casualties have been reported in the ranks of the Cincinnati Reds at their spring training camp here. Harry Hellmann, former batting champion of the American League, has an injured arm which developed from a long throw which he made in the exhibition game with the Yankees. Ray Kolp and Pete Donahue, veteran Red pitchers, are suffering with Charley horses in their throwing arms.

Although Cincinnati had no exhibition game yesterday, the squad was not permitted to loaf. Manager Dan Howley conducted a strenuous three-hour drill to iron out the wrinkles which came to the surface in recent exhibition tilts.

FLEADS GUILTY TO NON-SUPPORT HERE

Pleading guilty to a charge of non-support of Lewis, Jr., his four-months-old child, Lewis Irvin, who was arrested at Blanchester, O., Tuesday and returned to Xenia by Probation Officer J. E. Watts to face prosecution, was fined $10 and costs and sentenced to six months in the Cincinnati Workhouse by Juvenile Judge S. C. Wright Wednesday morning. The jail sentence will be suspended in the event Irvin is able to furnish $500 bond, guaranteeing support of the child. The affidavit was filed by Irvin's wife, who is at present living with her father, Harvey Snyder, this city.

STEMMERY TO OPEN AGAIN ON THURSDAY

After being closed down for thirty days while repairs were being made to the interior of the plant, the Xenia Stemmary branch of the American Cigar Co. W. Sec. and St. will resume operations Thursday with a full force of stemmers returning to work. It is announced. The stemmary employs approximately 400 stemmers, mostly women.

THANKS

The Xenia Gazette, Xenia City, Dear Sirs: The executive committee of the Federation of Women's Missionary Societies wishes to express its appreciation to the Gazette for its splendid assistance to our recent meetings, held on March 7th. We especially desire to thank Miss McKay and the pleasant voice of "70" probably, Miss Dalley.

Most sincerely, Mrs. J. Robert Bryson, Pres. Mrs. Geo. Street, 1st Vice-Pres. Mrs. Joel R. Lunsford, 2nd V. P. Mrs. O. M. Whittington, Sec. Mrs. Russell Burkett, Treas.

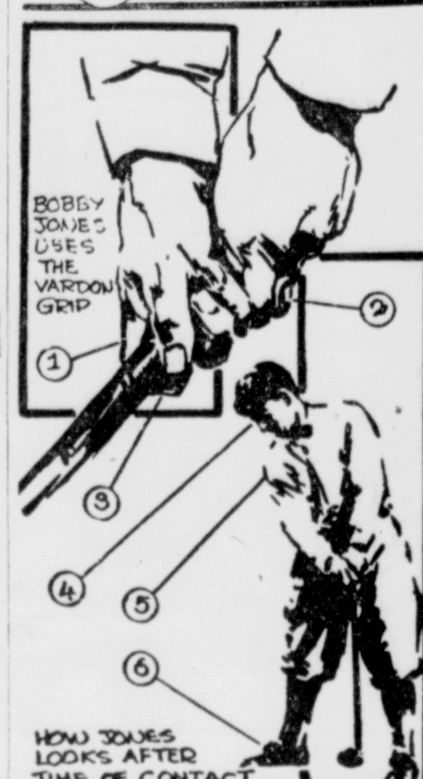

APPRECIATION

To The Editor of Xenia Gazette: May I express to you my happiness and pleasure I derived from your two editorials of Monday, March 17. The beautiful editorial about Bob Kingsbury was expressed so beautifully and was the thought of all who knew Bob. When we think of Bob it reminds us of Edgar A. Guest's poem "The Scoutmaster." Although Bob's physical self is gone his spirit will live on and on and future generations will call him blessed! And your editorial in the same paper, "Behaviour of High School Students" was read with joy—for we realize you appreciate the "voice of the press is powerful"—and that its editorials such as this one, will do much towards the continuance of prohibition and happiness. So I want you to know these editorials pleased me very much indeed.

As always, I am wishing you the best of luck for the Gazette and may it always stand true in future as it has in the past. (Mrs. J. J.) Elizabeth Stout.

FROM TEE TO GREEN

By ROY GROVE
Central Press Sports Writer

The foundation for all golf is the grip. The wrists cannot function properly if your fingers are in any way retarding the muscle action. The Vardon grip, as pictured, is one of common acceptance and used by the best professionals and amateurs. Bobby Jones uses it, which should be recommendation enough.

The important point of the grip is shown in figure No. 2, where the little finger of the right hand overlaps the forefinger of the left hand. The right forefinger of the right hand overlaps the grip and the right thumb lays over the club and the forefinger as shown in No. 3.

The moment of contact with your ball is your drive. If this is perfect the backswing and the follow through will take care of the rest. The illustration serves to tell you how you look at this point. The head is shown still down as in No. 4.

In No. 5, the right shoulder is hitting through the ball, an important point. Never stop the shoulder to hit the ball.

In No. 6 the force of the shot was made while the right foot was still on the ground—that puts your weight into the drive. Develop these points into a habit and your game will take care of itself.

INQUEST IN DEATH SET FOR MARCH 28

Haines, Greene County coroner, at the stenographer's office in the Court House at 9 a. m. March 28. Twenty-four witnesses, including several eye-witnesses of the crash, will be subpoenaed to testify at the inquiry, held in an effort to fix responsibility for the accident.

GUILD PLEASING IN "DULCY"; PLAYERS PERFORM HERE ABLY

The community was fortunate in the choice made by the Theater Guild of a play for the public, "Dulcy," as produced last night, has set a standard which the Guild need improve upon little to warrant its asking for continued support from its friends.

Mrs. Torrence did not portray Dulcy—she was Dulcy; rattle-brained, impulsive, chattering inanities, inevitably saying the wrong thing at the wrong time, childish and tactless, but loving, and, somehow, lovable. It must be very difficult for intelligence to act stupidly so perfectly. The entire cast supported the lead most ably; Dulcy met an able response, to whichever actor she turned, particularly from her leading men, her husband (Mr. Bone), her opponent (Mr. Forbes (Mr. Mann)).

The scenes between the three of them will linger in the memory: Dulcy, slim, active, frenziedly hospitable, separating the people who should have had a chance to talk together, bringing those together who should have been kept apart, like many an excitable hostess of one's experience; her husband Gordon, nervous, apprehensive, yet unable for a moment to stop her flood of words; her guest, Mr. Forbes, disgusted, tried to endure in the company he found himself in, yet equally unable to resist Dulcy, even to the point of being forced to sit in a chair he abhorred.

But there was no letting down of the action when the lead was not on the stage, or when she was—momentarily—subdued; neither were the parts over-acted, with the possible exception of that of Angela in her first scene alone, with Mr. Stetter; in the succeeding scenes she had recovered her poise and was less shrill and clamorous, and in the proposal scene with Mr. Leach was delightful. Certain pictures besides those of Dulcy herself remain in the mind as proof of the ability of all the cast: the tense moment when the ex-convict butler Henry passes the pearls from Angela to her father; the exhaustion of Mr. Leach when the curtain rises to show him at the end of an hour's story-telling—and, also, the exhaustion of his audience; and that sad moment when the defeated husband turns to Dulcy with his incredulous "Are you smiling?"

It seems invidious to mention one member of the cast and not all when all were good. Mr. Hyman played an extravagant and therefore difficult part amusingly. Mr. Bryson as Dulcy's younger brother Willie deserves particular commendation because his acting has improved so much since his last performance. One of the hardest things an amateur has to learn is to emphasize in his sentences the words which would naturally be emphasized in conversation; when he has learned it, he may seem to have forgotten successfully that he is acting. In his last part, Mr. Bryson gave every speech a strained emphasis; last night he was perfectly natural: bored, disgusted, humorous, and capable, in contrast to the flighty Dulcy; and the audience recognized his achievement by its laughter.

Something should be said, too, in recognition of the reliance the members of the cast had on each other, of all the emotion and intelligence that was conveyed to the audience by look and gesture, beyond the words the playwright had given the actors to speak—conveyed, too, not too obviously, but almost subtly.

The mechanics of the play also showed a marked advance: there was no long wait before the curtain went up, nor between acts; there were only one or two fumbling moments in its performance, when cues were missed; all the actors were audible all the time, except for a few words spoken by Mr. Van Dyck from behind the piano while he was playing it.

And Mr. Hyman and Mr. Swartz should be thanked by all familiar with the former scenery of the Opera House, for providing Dulcy with a new drawing room—a room not only comfortably furnished, but conveying in the arrangement of walls and doors, an air of spaciousness and comfort in itself.

The Guild's next play is to be "Miss Lulu Bett"; an ambitious choice; straight drama is so much harder to act than comedy; a witty line will always be laughed at, even if badly delivered—a serious line may be laughed at, too, if it is badly delivered, and then a whole scene miscarries. But the Guild has shown now what it can accomplish, and is to be praised for attempting something even more difficult; its members await the next play with the feeling that now there is a standard to be preserved—a challenge to be met.—H. H. S.

ORDERED FROM CITY

A negro arrested Tuesday night by Patrolman George Robinson after complaints were received that he was accosting women on the streets and attempting to engage them in conversation, was ordered to leave the city by Municipal Judge E. Dawson Smith Wednesday morning. The colored man, police say, was armed with a club, talked wildly and was apparently suffering from a recurrence of the effects of being shell-shocked during the late war. He said he was from Virginia and that South Charleston was his destination.

GIVEN PAROLE

Because the court has learned that he is probably feeble-minded, James Banks, who changed his plea to guilty and was fined $100 and costs on a charge of selling liquor by Probate Judge S. C. Wright last week, has been ordered paroled in the custody of J. B. Johnson.

PLAN MEMBERSHIP DRIVE AT BANQUET

Plans for a campaign to obtain new members will be outlined at the annual banquet of the Greene County Fish and Game Protective Association Wednesday night in the Sharp Bldg. at Jamestown, which is expected to attract more than 300 sportsmen from all parts of the county. A feature of the banquet will be the showing of motion pictures of the hunting trip taken by Frederick B. Patterson, Dayton, in Africa.

ONLY MALE SIAMESE TWINS DO NOT WANT TO BE SEPARATED THEY SAY

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service Dramatic Editor.

NEW YORK, March 19.—"Sure, we argue sometimes," said Lucio, half of the only male "Siamese twins" in the world. "But only when we're playing bridge with our wives. Other times it's fifty-fifty."

These two Filipino boys are 21. They are in America with their young brides, Natividad and Victoria, a pair of Filipino cuties who appeared extremely fond of their husbands.

The wives are twin sisters. The four were married last July after a school romance in the Philippines. "Which one of you makes most of the decisions?" I asked the two boys.

"Lucio went courting first," answered Simplicito, "but I asked my girl to marry me at the same time he asked his."

"We went to the bureau and the license clerk decided that we were legally one person and that he could not issue two marriage licenses," he said. "But we took it up with the attorney general and he reversed the ruling of the city clerk."

The "Siamese twins" swim, golf and drive an automobile. They also dance and roller-skate.

While in America they intend to appear in vaudeville with their brides.

The known record of "Siamese twins" follows:

The Biddison Maids, born in Kent, England, in 1100.

The "Scottish Brothers", born four centuries later.

The Hungarian Sisters, born in 1701, living twenty-two years. Millie and Christine, negro girls, born in 1851.

The Sardinian Sisters and the Bohemian Sisters, born in Europe. Chang and Eng, (the only other known male "Siamese twins") brought to America from Siam in 1871 by P. T. Barnum, showman. Died in 1874.

Mexican "Siamese twins". Separated by surgery in 1906. One died.

The British "Siamese twins", born in Brighton, England, in 1907. Mary and Margaret Gibb, born joined-together in 1912 at Holyoke, Mass.

The Blazek Twins, born in Hungary. Died in Chicago in 1922.

KOOLMOTOR

The ORIGINAL HIGH TEST ANTI-KNOCK GREEN GAS

Best by Eleven Tests!

Koolmotor—absolutely the finest gasolene you can put in your car—has eliminated, once and for all, the necessity of shopping for gasolene superiority.

No longer do you have to try one gasolene for anti-knock value, another for quick starting, another for mileage, and still others for power, etc.

Koolmotor combines the best points of all gasolenes in one! It has everything—speed, power, pick-up, anti-knock quality—everything you demand of a motor fuel.

Before a single gallon of this powerful, clean burning motor fuel is offered for your use, it must pass 11 of the most rigid laboratory tests ever given any gasolene—tests for starting, acceleration, power, anti-knock, vapor pressure, odor, corrosion, sulphur, gum content, distillation and mileage. Following this, it is road-tested thousands of miles every day to guarantee perfect performance in your car.

Why tolerate gasolenes that give a showy effect in one phase of performance at the sacrifice of others equally important? Insist on Koolmotor, the gas that is good throughout—Koolmotor, a premium quality gasolene that more than justifies its premium price—Koolmotor, the finest gasolene you can put in your car.

Turning the light of Truth on false and misleading statements in recent cigarette advertising

WHAT ANOTHER MANUFACTURER of cigarettes chooses to say about his product is not our affair. Even when he sees fit to misrepresent his product and leave false impressions concerning it, that still is his business—not ours.

But—when, in his advertising, he goes beyond his own product and makes false statements or leaves misleading impressions about other cigarettes—then it is time that the truth be told.

Some time ago a manufacturer of cigarettes used the following statements in his advertising:

"The extra secret heating process removes from (————) harmful irritants, corrosive acids, which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way, and which cause throat irritation and coughing."
"No matter how much or how little you pay for cigarettes you have a choice of only two general classes, and not more than two. In one class you have the billions of cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way and in the other class you have (————), the toasted cigarette, a product of modern science, a cigarette from which harmful irritants have been removed by that extra secret process described by the phrase 'It's Toasted'."

WHEN THESE STATEMENTS were first made, we assumed that they were a casual phase of that manufacturer's advertising and did not represent a deliberate and calculated policy. After making a few such statements, he abandoned this particular form of advertising. However, other statements used in his advertising came to the attention of the Federal Trade Commission on a question of their truthfulness.

As a result of the action of the Federal Trade Commission he was ordered to stop his admitted practice of using in his advertising false testimonials of non-smokers to the effect that they kept slender by smoking his brand of cigarettes, and was further ordered to stop using other fake testimonials and the specious argument that all can keep slender by smoking that brand of cigarettes. He then began to use again the form of statement quoted above or variations of it.

IF ANY MANUFACTURER chooses to say that the tobaccos he uses contain "harmful irritants, corrosive acids, that are injurious to the throat," and then to claim that these things are removed by the heat-treating process, that is his own affair. But when he tries to create the impression that it is general practice to use in cigarettes such rank tobaccos as he describes, we object to the attempted reflection on the industry.

We have never used in our blend those rank tobaccos which can be properly described as containing "harmful irritants, corrosive acids," nor do we believe that they are used by some of the other manufacturers.

If that manufacturer wishes to advertise heat treatment, calling it toasting or what-not, that is his right. But when, in so doing, he tries to create the impression that he is the only maker of cigarettes who treats tobaccos with heat, the truth again needs to be told.

The publication of a fake testimonial is no greater perversion of the truth than to imply that the heat treatment of tobaccos is an exclusive process with any single manufacturer.

THE FACT is that the use of heat treatment in the manufacture of tobacco is about the most commonplace and universally practiced method in the industry. It has long been standard practice.

We use heat treatment in its most modern and scientific application, both in the preparation and in the manufacture of those mild, fragrant, ripe tobaccos that carry their natural goodness into CAMELS.

The first CAMEL Cigarette we ever made was manufactured under the heat-treating process. Every one of the billions of CAMELS produced since has been manufactured under heat treatment. We rely upon heat to the limits of its possibilities to make our good tobaccos better. It cannot make inferior tobaccos good.

WHETHER OR NOT a manufacturer, to have something to talk to the public about, attaches a contrivance to his heat-treating machines to catch, condense and bottle the vapors that come from them can have no more effect toward improving the tobacco than your catching and bottling the vapors that come from your teapot would have toward improving the tea in the pot.

Our own brand, CAMEL, continues to grow, but we are, nevertheless, unwilling to let these far-reaching false statements or impressions regarding the cigarette industry go uncorrected.

Vast Army of Workers to Gather Census Data

[illegible]

It is a far cry back to 1790, when the Federal census of the United States was taken. The Census Bureau has, like all other things, improved its system since the first census taking. Above illustration shows the extreme care which Uncle Sam takes in gathering and compiling data on his gigantic family. An interesting comparison in the illustration is that of the census taken in Boston in 1790 with its antiquated forms compared with the more practical form of 1930. Note the important names listed in the Boston census report, names of persons who played a part in the history of our country which have earned for them a place on history's pages. The compilation of the 1930 census will require the services of more than 100,000 people.

WILL ENFORCE CITY STATUTE AGAINST FACING FIRE TRUCKS

Firemen and police have been instructed by City Manager M. C. Smith to hereafter strictly enforce a city ordinance providing a fine not to exceed $25 and costs for failure on the part of motorists or other vehicles to give the right of way to fire trucks responding to an alarm.

Police and also members of the fire department have been directed to arrest when possible, or as an alternative, jot down the license numbers of cars of all violators of this ordinance and report the violation to City Solicitor W. A. Miller, in order that the offenders may be prosecuted.

This step, Manager Smith has advised City Commission, has become necessary due to the "utter disregard of the rights of fire trucks on the streets, apparent recently."

In answering an alarm March 12, a fire truck was forced to wait at Detroit and Main sts., on an auto which entered the intersection in a deliberate attempt to "beat" the truck, the city manager declared. At the overhead bridge on S. Detroit St., the number of autos following the Seagrave pumper completely blocked the street and caused the ladder truck to come to an almost complete stop before the street had cleared sufficiently for the truck's passage, he said.

The $25 fine provided in the ordinance which henceforth will be strictly enforced, applies to all persons following the truck, "by vehicle or automobile when the apparatus is making a run to the scene of a fire, or nearer to a fire truck than one square."

At the scene of a blaze the ordinance makes it "unlawful for any person or persons to park or stop a vehicle or machine nearer than one square of the fire or in any manner congest the street within that distance."

Vehicles approaching a fire truck must "drive to the side of the street affording a clear passage for the truck, come to a full stop and remain stationary until the apparatus has passed."

COMPARE VALUES BEFORE YOU BUY AN AUTOMOBILE

Low charges for distribution of the new Ford save you at least $50 to $75 in addition to the many savings in making the car

THESE are days when every dollar counts. The period of reckless spending is over. People are going back to the good old-fashioned principles of thrift and economy. Value is again being carefully considered.

Nowhere is this more important than in the selection of an automobile. For the purchase of a car represents a considerable investment. It should not be decided on hurriedly, but only after analyzing every important factor that concerns cost, value and performance. The time to do this is before buying—not afterward when it is too late.

ON THE basis of cost, performance and the actual comparative worth of every part, the new Ford is a value far above the price you pay. It is made of better materials and with greater care and accuracy because of the recognized efficiency and economy of Ford manufacturing methods.

The value of these methods is known and understood by millions of people. It is not generally realized, however, that these same principles of efficiency and economy are applied also to every step in the distribution of the Ford car. The low cost of selling, financing time payments, etc., means a direct saving to you of at least $50 to $75 in addition to the money saved by Ford economies in making the car. There are definite reasons why this is so.

(1) The Ford dealer does business on a smaller margin of profit because of the greater number of cars he sells. His discount or commission is the lowest of any automobile dealer. The difference in your favor, ranging from 25% to nearly 50%, comes right off the price you pay for the car.

(2) No expensive extra equipment is needed when you buy a Ford. The car leaves the factory ready for use. The f.o.b. price includes a Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield and an extra steel-spoke wheel, in addition to four Houdaille double-acting shock absorbers and fully enclosed four-wheel brakes. Any accessories you may wish for your individual taste are sold considerably below the usual prices.

None of these charges for selling, financing or accessories is marked up or increased to cover a high trade-in allowance on a used car.

Get all the facts, therefore, before you buy and figure out just what you are getting for your automobile dollars. Go beyond the f.o.b. price and find out how much more you pay the dealer than the dealer pays at the factory. Analyze the used-car allowance. Compare all charges—item for item—value for value.

WHEN you do this you will have a new appreciation of what the Ford Motor Company and Ford dealers are doing to keep down the cost of Ford cars. You will also know why it is possible to put so much real value into the new Ford and still retain the low price. The money you pay goes for value in the car. It is not wasted in excessive costs in manufacturing or selling.

CEDARVILLE MAY QUEEN FOR 1930 IS BRUNETTE

CHOSEN by popular vote of her classmates for the honor, Miss Lucille Tanner, Beaver Creek Twp., pretty bobbed-haired brunette and a senior student at Cedarville College, will preside as May queen at "Cedar Day" exercises, annual frolic of the college commencement week, June 4.

As a feature of the program Miss Tanner will be crowned queen of May by Miss Margaret Chandler, Cleveland, last year's May queen. Only senior girls are eligible for the honor.

Basketball has had a prominent place in the activities of Miss Tanner at college. A graduate of Beaver Creek High School, where she starred on the feminine court team, Miss Tanner has been a regular on the college girls' basketball team for four years and served as captain for two seasons.

Athletics is not the only department in which she excels, however, as she has been active in college affairs. This year she is secretary-treasurer of the student body, treasurer of her class and a member of the staff of the "Cedrus," college annual publication. She has been prominently identified with Y. W. C. A. work and has exhibited considerable dramatic ability, having a part in the class play in her junior year and in the annual "Cedrus" play this year.

The entire "Cedar Day" program will take place on the college campus, beginning in the forenoon with class stunts, the "Cedar Day" oration, planting of the cedar, crowning of the May queen, the May queen's procession, folk dancing, stunts and other features.

Loan Guilt Ousts Vitale From Bench

Albert H. Vitale was removed from New York City magistracy by the Appellate Division, before which he was tried and found guilty of unjudicial conduct in the acceptance of a $20,000 loan from the late Arnold Rothstein, notorious gambler. Following Vitale's conviction, Norman Thomas, noted Socialist, laid before the additional Grand Jury the names of eleven other city magistrates whose acts he declared should be investigated.

HIGH HAT A RADIO ROMANCE

READ THIS FIRST: Elanda Lee, twenty, auburn haired, grayed eyed and very pretty, has just arrived in New York after singing for four years over an Atlanta radio station. She wants to sing opera. She is to live with her old friend, Dixie Durkin, from Jordon, Georgia, a little town along the Suwannee River, where she was born. Dixie is married and has a baby two years old. When Elanda goes for her audition she meets Suwanee Collier, ukulele player. The owner of the studio, Gregory Du Pont, the second, a director and Suwanee, hear her audition. She sings a high-class operatic number and then she is asked to sing "Suwanee River." She is merely told she will hear from the studio. She thinks she has failed.

Because Suwanee is from Georgia, too, she lets him take her to dinner. Later she takes him home to meet Dixie and Bang and the baby. Andree adores him, and he and Dixie have a gay evening, playing and singing jazz songs, of which Elanda does not approve.

Elanda receives word to come to the studio, and is offered a much smaller job than she expected—singing in a light opera chorus. She is in the office of Du Pont when his son comes in. The father hurries her out, almost abruptly. He follows her to the publicity office and invites her to dinner. Suwanee Collier invites her to the theater.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER VII

A look of unbelief crossed Suwanee's face. "You're going out with him? Why, I didn't even know you knew him." Elanda smiled mysteriously. "Oh, there may be a lot of things you don't know about me, Mr. Collier." Nelson Connell was amused. With his keen insight into human nature he sensed that here was a tangle. He was curious to know how long Elanda had known their ukulele star. "You old friends?" he asked, grinning. "You sound as though you might be married to each other, or something." Suwanee got his bearings. "Miss Lee is from my native state. I met her when she came for her audition. It seems like home—seeing someone from Georgia." "I dare say it does." A shade of amusement crept into Nelson's voice. "Elanda will remind a lot of boys around here of their mothers and their old sweethearts. She's that type."

Suwanee felt himself growing angry at the tone Nelson took. But he knew down in his heart he was a good scout—a bit cynical, but a good fellow. He therefore forced a grin and said hastily: "Well, I'll have to dig up another gal. So long! Have a good time."

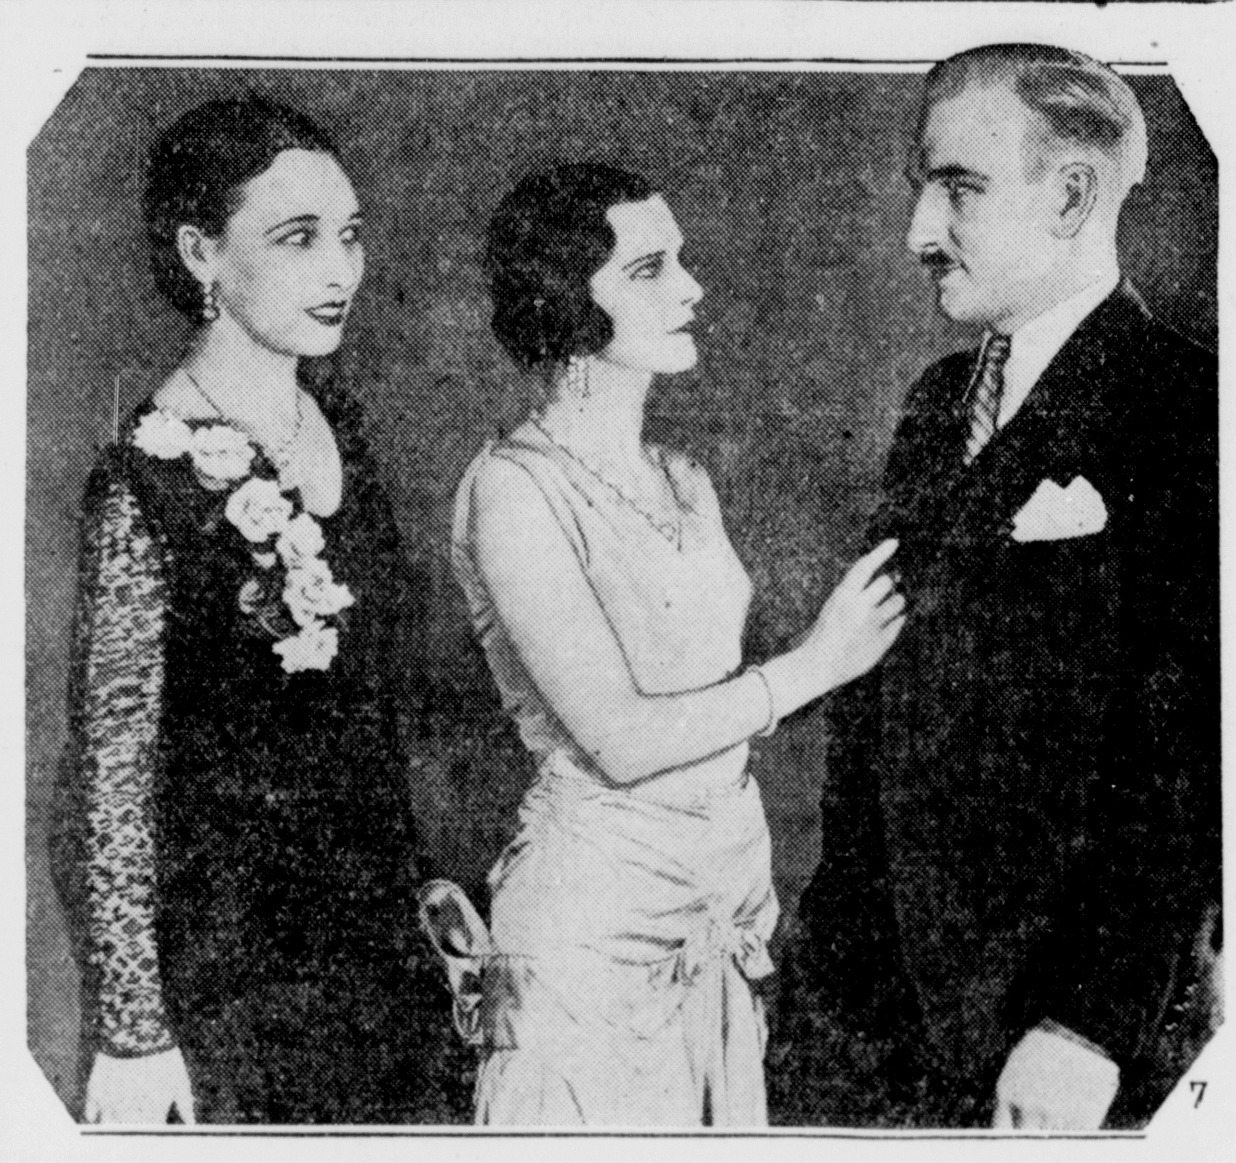

When he went out Nelson laughed long and loudly. "Another Indian hit the dust! I'm almost afraid to sit in here alone with you, Cleopatra. You sure tie 'em in a knot in a hurry. That boy is nobody's slouch, either. But he's only a uke player. Don't let his big, boyish smile do what it does to most of the girls. Most of 'em around here would sell their winter underwear for him. But up till now I thought he must be a little girl. Life doesn't play much around the shop."

"He seems charming," Elanda agreed, indifferently. "But I'm not going to write home about him. Don't worry."

Nelson picked up his pencil to sketch some more notes. "If any more of your victims come in here I'll have to throw them out on their ear. My office seems to be your At Home this P. M. I'd have baked a cake if I'd known we were going to have a party—now let's see—your people were rich cotton planters—you were brought up in a convent in Atlanta—you began studying when you were six. Your life story is going to be good, baby. You studied voice culture a year in Berlin? Do you know it?"

The car that stood in front of the door when Elanda left for dinner with Greg Du Pont and Nelson Connell was the most beautiful one she ever had seen. A long greyhound looking affair of foreign make. She couldn't even pronounce the name when she glanced hurriedly at the front to see what it was.

She couldn't be blamed too much for holding her head a little higher—and feeling just a little superior to a lot of other people she could think of at the moment. She had received enough flattery in the last couple of hours to last her for a year. Don't blame her too much for being young and foolish and human. Older and more experienced people than Elanda Lee have been known to have had their heads turned with less.

Out of the corner of her eye she saw Suwanee Collier come out of the building. She knew how her lavender dress and hat blended in with the gray sport car as she sunk into it—and that, all in all, it made a striking and elegant picture. She waved to him and smiled. A sort of moving picture smile of satisfaction and elegance. It was meant to play him. But what he said between his clenched teeth was:

"Crazy little fool! I guess she's just like all the rest. Falling for a skirt chaser like that! Well, I'm glad I found out before she made a sap out of me."

But he had only walked a few blocks when he began to worry about her. After all, she was young—and didn't know New York. And a fellow like that with money could turn a girl's head.

It was a shame there was a law against shooting guys like that! One minute Suwanee boiled. The next he jeered at himself for worrying about a girl he didn't know from Adam. Well, she wouldn't play him for a sap. That was certain!

Bandito's restaurant was a sort of rendezvous for the radio crowd. It was around the corner from Fifth Avenue on Fifty-seventh St., down three steps in the basement of a former brown stone house. Needless to say, food was not all that was served at Bandito's.

At 5:30 it was filled with a gay, chattering mob of diners—and waiters. There were three small rooms, crowded and smoke filled. The bar was in the middle of the two dining rooms. As Gregory and Nelson and Elanda passed through, the boys greeted a girl, perched saucily on one of the stools at the bar, drinking from a tall glass.

"What ho?" she looked Elanda over, "a new conquest, Nelson?"

"No such luck, Whoopee, my dear—Gregory hath the charms this time."

Gregory, putting in arm slightly around Elanda, pulled her closer to him.

"Miss Prevost—I want you to meet the great love of my life—Miss Elanda Lee, the latest recruit of WWBC."

There was no mistaking that a look of shock—and something else—came over Carmel Prevost's face. She hid it in a moment with a forced smile.

"Charming, I'm sure. You say Miss Lee, you are to be at WWBC?"

"Yes," Elanda smiled proudly. "It was taken on the staff today. Isn't it too lovely?"

"Marvelous," Carmel cut in the world short. "What are you to do?"

Nelson answered for her. He was enjoying himself.

"She got May Martin's place. May left to go on the Siblo hour program."

Carmel had to bite her tongue to keep from saying too much. Both men knew she had been after a place at WWBC for months. It was the one thing her heart was set upon. But all her millions couldn't cover up the fact that, as a singer, she would have made a good organ grinder. To get rid of her she had been half promised the next opening on the staff at World Wide. They had put her on in speaking parts—society girl things, in the sketches because her name was so well known in social circles. But even in that capacity she had been more than a little no good.

Greg patted her on the shoulder and smiled as though nothing in the world were the matter.

"Come on in and sit down with us, Whoopee. We'll make it a foursome. You seem to be alone."

"I am waiting for Bid Cameron. I'll sit till he comes. He's late, as usual."

Elanda didn't think much of a girl sitting at a bar with strange men, unescorted. But she supposed she was a society girl and exercised the privilege of doing pretty much as she pleased. Curious to know something about her, Elanda could hardly wait until she could ask questions.

They had no more than sat down until Elanda discovered the wary looking little blonde had claws as well as nerve. For Carmel, whom all her friends called "Whoopee," said sweetly:

"I suppose since you have a southern dialect Nelson is going to promote you with the usual old saw—'Miss Lee is from one of the finest families of Virginia.'"

CHAPTER VIII

"Are you Miss Lee of the Robert E. Lees?" Greg leaned over and patted her head. "If you are I'm going to join the old boy's army, the very next time we have a war."

Elanda did not want to show that she knew Carmel Prevost was being catty. She wanted to wait until she knew what Miss Prevost disliked about her—so she said almost too sugarly:

"I don't know whether he was one of our ancestors or not. My people are in cotton."

"Oh! Mine are in clover."

Whoopee Prevost laughed shrilly at her own joke. "I'm one of the Four Leaf Clovers."

"My people are in shoes—bootleggers," Nelson joined in to break the icy spell. "What are we going to drink?"

Elanda felt a little self-conscious. But for no one but at the price of being taunted by anyone even as disagreeable as the strange blonde had proved to be would she break her iron-clad rule.

"I'm sorry, I don't drink," she regretted. "It is bad for my voice."

Carmel laughed an amused, cool laugh.

Gall-Curd is a pretty good singer, too. I wonder if you've ever heard of her?"

Gregory urged Elanda to have just one high ball or cocktail, but she shook her head determinedly. Nelson championed her.

"Let the kid alone. Maybe she signed the pledge."

"I've never needed to," Elanda said proudly. "My voice has always meant more to me than liquor and cigarettes. I don't believe they're good for singers."

A light suddenly dawned upon Elanda during the course of the meal. Carmel Prevost was crazy about Greg Du Pont! She did not know yet of her ambitions to be a prima donna.

Well, that being the case, the only way to get back at her for her obvious dislikes was to play up to Greg Du Pont. Elanda had made up her mind she would know him a great deal better—and that he was to help her know other people worth while. She was getting just a little taste of what the gay and interesting life in New York might be. And she decided she liked it and wanted a great deal more.

It wasn't every day that a girl walked right into such a chance. Handsome Greg Du Pont with his millions—and his gorgeous car and his celebrated name. It was a far cry from the little home down along the Suwannee River. She hadn't hoped to know people like that without a great deal more effort and time.

The table was along the wall and Greg sat beside her. When he leaned over so that his shoulder touched hers, she smiled at him slowly and tantalizingly. It was Whoopee's benefit. And Whoopee did not miss it.

She felt her heart pounding coldly. Womanlike she sensed that Elanda knew of her interest in Greg Du Pont and was deliberately taunting her. She knew then and had overplayed her hand. Her nasty temper again! If only she would learn to use her head. She would have to correct it. Maybe, she could later give the impression that she had been a little tight when they came into the restaurant. That would excuse her. Perhaps they would think she was trying to be funny and over-doing it because of her condition.

She decided then was the time to start making amends. If she wanted to defeat the new girl who had taken two things she wanted very badly, she would have to be friendly with her. Keep her enemy in sight—and show her up if possible, later in some way. Carmel thought that Elanda looked inexperienced. She did not look like a real girl with money. She probably was a nobody. A fourflusher.

So, while Elanda was apparently absorbed in Greg and he was slowly, but surely, losing his head over her attractiveness and coquetry, Carmel looked across at her and smiled sweetly.

"My dear, if I had your hair and eyes I wouldn't give a darn for anything else in the world. I'd go out and get anything I wanted."

Nelson swallowed to keep from laughing—and kept still. Elanda was surprised—but not fooled, when she replied:

"If you had kept over your hair as often as I did when I was a kid you wouldn't say that. No one that has red hair likes it."

Greg looked into her eyes. "You can have anything I've got, beautiful. Anything in the world."

"I may take you up on that sometime," Elanda laughed.

And was very proud of herself because she thought she might be giving Carmel just the impression she hoped to give her. That she was going after Greg Du Pont—bankroll and all.

Nelson decided the little girl from Georgia was nobody's fool. It always amused him to see two women mix it up in a little kittle fight. But he had a hunch then and there that this might turn out to be a feud.

It was no secret that Carmel Prevost and her mother had been after Gregory junior to throw him into the matrimonial bag for a long time. Ever since Carmel came out six years before. He knew, too, that Carmel was not so popular as she had been.

She was pretty in a blonde, light blue-eyed sort of way. But she would soon be all washed out. She looked thirty then—and would never improve at the rate she lived. No sleep—and cocktail parties every afternoon and dancing till all hours of the night. She wasn't more than twenty-four.

He couldn't understand why a girl with so much money should want a singing career. But, for that matter, it seemed half the debutantes in New York were trying to buy places on the stage or in the movies or on the radio. They used to buy titles. Now they were going in for buying careers. Buying, begging or stealing their way into the limelight—because since the war it was the smart thing to do.

Elanda and Greg seemed to be absorbed in each other. Whoopee boiled inside—but controlled herself as best she could. She reached over and picked up Nelson's hand—trying to clasp to cover up the situation.

"Nelson, darling, aren't you glad you met me? Don't you think I have the cutest ears? And my circulation is the largest in the world."

She thanked her lucky star when she looked up and saw Bill Cameron. And it didn't take her long to suggest they go some place else for dinner. "A perfectly tricky new Oriental place she knew about where the waiters wouldn't even let a shadow fall across your rice because it was an evil omen or something!"

When she went out Elanda drew away from the arduous Greg.

"I don't think she likes me much."

Both men laughed. It was somewhat of a shock to Elanda when Nelson confessed:

"If you can keep a secret I'll tell you one. I happen to know she offered thousands of dollars to a director for the job you've got now. She has spent a fortune on her voice—and can't get a break anywhere."

was the Balfour declaration regarding Palestine, which set that country aside as a permanent home for repatriated Jews.

Death of the earl caused grief throughout the nation. King George, who had regarded Lord Balfour as one of his most trusted friends and advisers, immediately sent the following message to the dead statesman's family:

"I shall treasure Lord Balfour's memory as a lifelong friend. His was a great and charming personality, and a wise and trusted counselor."

It was announced that funeral services will be held at Balfour's country place, Whittinghame, Scotland, on Saturday.

Earl Balfour of Whittinghame was regarded as one of Britain's master statesmen, for he served his country faithfully and well for more than half a century, and while his political fortunes often carried him into stormy places, his career was largely a long and brilliant procession of achievement.

Affectionately known to all Britons as "A. J." and "Mr. Balfour," it was not until late in life, when he returned from outstanding successes at the Washington arms conference, that he was induced by the king to accept a title as a mark of appreciation of his services.

Perhaps no English statesman was better known or liked in America than the Earl of Balfour. In 1917 when the United States entered the war "Mr. Balfour" came to Washington at the head of the British war mission. His tempered judgment, modest manners and quiet persuasiveness immediately won for him the admiration of all.

Born July 25, 1848, he was educated at Eton and Trinity. He entered parliament from Hertford in 1874. Later he served as private secretary to his uncle, the Marquis of Salisbury, then secretary of state for foreign affairs. Appointed chief secretary for Ireland in 1887 his financial policy won for him the name "Baldy Balfour," but his subsequent success in bettering conditions softened this harsh feeling. In 1891 he became first lord of the treasury and leader of commons. The South African war occurred during this time.

Mr. Balfour became premier in 1902, going down to defeat with his Conservative party in 1906. He surprised his friends in 1916 by joining Lloyd George's administration, which was formed to handle the desperate war situation. The earl was never married.

Variety Of Occupations In B. P. W. Club Here

Officers of the Xenia Business and Professional Women's Club, which participated in National Business Women's Week last week, are shown above. Prof. C. S. Adams, Antioch College chemist, will address the club Thursday night at the monthly meeting at the K. of P. Hall and next month the club will hold its annual vocational meeting when girl members of the graduating classes of Central and St. Brigid High schools will be guests of the organization.

The above group presents the Thursday and Friday evenings. The Xenia Club, which has been one of the fast growing clubs of celebrated National Business and Professional Women's Club Week 1921, now numbers seventy-eight members and represents a wide diversity in the business life of the week by presenting old time costumes in the Style Show given by Kennedy's at the Bijou Theater.

gan to fail and he will voluntarily retire from the force altogether at the first of next year, being the first member of the department to take advantage of the recently created police pension and relief fund, which will not be available until 1931.

Capt. Cornwell, who will assume the duties of chief, Thursday, has been identified with the National Guard for twenty years and in the recent civil service examination stood highest in grades.

Born in Columbus, July 16, 1893, he was educated in Central High School in that city and then became a journeyman electrician. He joined Machine Gun Co., Fourth Ohio Infantry, February 28, 1910 and since that time has a high record of military service.

In 1916 he saw service on the Mexican border and in 1917 when his company was transferred to the 166th U. S. regiment, Rainbow Division, he went overseas, where he spent two years in France during the late war.

During the war he suffered three wounds from shell fragments, one above the left eye, one on the right hip and one on the right knee. These wounds were received in a trench raid above Baccarat and in the Marne offensive above Chateau Thierry. He was also severely burned with mustard gas and was forced to spend considerable time in Base Hospital No. 44.

Upon leaving the hospital he was assigned to special duty in the division of criminal investigation.

Following the war he was associated for a year with The Delco Light Co. and a year with the United Electrical Co. at Marion, O., after which he was identified with the Marion police force for eighteen months, being named sergeant in charge of the 1st Precinct Warren G. Harding bodyguard in 1922.

He came to Xenia in 1925 to become military instructor at the O. S. and S. O. Home the same year that Col. Thomas E. Andrews, who had been mayor of Marion, was named superintendent of the state institution here.

Resigning as military instructor, Capt. Cornwell was appointed a deputy sheriff in the office of the Greene County sheriff and served for eighteen months, assigned to duties as county road patrolman. He resigned this post and returned to the O. S. and S. O. Home again as military instructor, serving another year and resigning once more at the first of this year.

He was named commanding officer of the local National Guard unit December 21, 1926 and was made a captain February 1, 1927.

Capt. Cornwell is affiliated with the Masonic Order, is an Odd Fellow and a member of the American Legion, formerly serving as adjutant. He is 36 years old and he and Mrs. Cornwell and their two boys and one girl live at 36 Chestnut St.

Appointment of Capt. Cornwell on the force increases the personnel of the department to eight regular members, an addition of one, under terms of an ordinance recently passed by City Commission, providing for re-organization of the force.
